Project Funding (Service and Philanthropy)

Cassamarca Australia Project – one of the largest philanthropic gifts to the Humanities in Australia. Since 2000, the Cassamarca Foundation in Treviso, Italy, has invested more than $28.5 million to fund Italian Studies lectureships at nine Australian Universities. The Cassamarca Foundation in Treviso, Italy is a private Foundation that funds cultural initiatives in Italian research worldwide. Loretta Baldassar first met the president of the Foundation, Avvocato Dino De Poli, while doing field research in Treviso for her doctoral thesis in 1990. Both Loretta’s research focus on Italian migration and her ethnic background as a second generation Italian migrant meant that she was well placed to advise Avvocato De Poli about the state of Italian Studies in Australia. Through Loretta’s initiative and leadership, the Cassamarca Australia Project was initiated and has since developed into one of the largest philanthropic gifts to the Humanities in Australian universities. It includes 13 full-time lectureships, annual student travel bursaries to study in Italy and funding to support the Australasian Centre for Italian studies including biennial conferences. The lectureships alone represent an increase by about 20% of academic staff in Italian studies Australia wide. UWA is the financial and legal administrative body for the Cassamarca lectureships. This position not only brings investment dollars into the university but also provides it with an opportunity to play an important role in serving Italian Studies and the Italian community throughout Australia. Departments at UWA successfully applied for three Cassamarca lectureships. One of these is a language and literature position in the Italian program, one is a joint department of History and Anthropology appointment in Italian migration studies, the only position of its kind in Australia and the third is an Associate Professorship in Classics. The other Australian universities with Cassamarca Lectureships include Swinburne University, the University of Melbourne, the University of Sydney, the University of the Sunshine Coast, Flinders University, Monash University, Griffith University, and the University of South Australia.
