

Goal: To have my 100 word challenge be in the ant's perspective so I have to be careful which words I use because it has to be in the ants senses.

Entry: 5/6/2007

Dear diary, Today

I saw an object that dropped from one of those giants that tries to kill us with their awkward feet. Anyway, I found those creatures very fascinating today. They had machines that blew out water objects, I heard they were called bubbles or something. This bubble was special, it just didn't pop at all even when it hit the ground. I could see myself in the bubble it was like my own personalized mirror. I asked Johnny (my ant pal) to take a photo of me with the bubble. This adventure was the highlight of my day.

Mr Ant

