

Sour strawberries

Innovated by Charlotte

One day in the bush, a koala was eating gum leaves and was feeling bored of always eating the same thing. So he decided to go investigating for new trees. He went off and found a tree that had strawberries growing on it. He was sure he would love strawberries so he tried and tried to get them. The koala was starting to get sad that he couldn't reach them but he kept on trying and trying. He began to get tired from trying so hard to get the strawberries that he finally decided to give up. He said "I bet they would be sour" and he went off back to his gum tree.

The lesson is sometimes we are mean when we don't get what we want.
