

Book Title _____

Pages: _____

Predictor: Your role is to predict what will happen next. You can predict what a character will do, what event will happen or what will take place next. When you are making predictions, you will need to predict based on something from the text and your own feelings about why you think it will happen next. Remember, it's okay to make predictions that don't actually happen in the story.
