Terra Australis

By

Rica Poole
Contents

First Australians
Aboriginal culture
Origin of water
18 century England
The first fleet
Bound for Botany bay
Did you know that at least aboriginals lived here 40,000 years before white people came to Australia? Aboriginals didn't have any money like us they had to find their own way to survive to entertain themselves. They would make paint and paint a picture out of dots and patterns.
Aboriginal culture

In aboriginal culture aboriginals wear animal skin.

And hunt for their food and use bones for their weapons.

They didn't have houses like now they made little huts out of bark, wood or straw.

My picture represents a kangaroo trying to get a drink when trying not to be seen in between to gangs. A snake is in the pond and bites the kangaroo and dies.
The origin of water

Prediction
I predict. That this story is about some animals that try to find some water and someone is hiding it.

Summary
There was no water, and all the animals thought that the blue tongued lizard had it hidden. They were really angry about it. So the bandicoot, Gudjulla, followed him to the water. The lizard was too smart and swatted the bandicoot out of the corner of his eye. The next to try and follow was Jiggirjiggirr the willy wagtail. But whenever he tried to hide, his tail would wag, so the blue tongued lizard found him. Then the rat Gulia asked if he could follow him, and the animals laughed. They thought he was too small. Gula followed the blue tongued lizard and found where he had hidden the water. The animals were happy!!!
Feelings of response

Rat felt sad and happy.
Willy wag tail felt sad.
The other animals felt angry and happy.
Blue tongued lizard felt really happy.
Bandicoot felt sad.

Questions

Why did the blue tongued lizard hide the water from the animals?
It was horrible in jail they didn't feed you or dress you.

There wasn't enough food for anyone.

They even had to steal things just to stay alive.

In jail they didn't even have a bed not even something comfortable to sit on.
The first fleet

18 January 1788: arrived at Botany Bay after sailing south of Van Diemen's Land, then north to New South Wales. It was decided that Botany Bay was not a suitable site for the settlement because water supply and soils were poor. The Fleet sailed on.

July 1787: crossed the Equator.
bound for Botany Bay

Who is singing this song? the convicts that are getting sent to Sydney.
Why are they singing it? to frighten away there fear.
Why are they saying ‘farewell to Old England forever?’ because they might not ever go back to England ever again.
Where were they going? Why? to Botany Bay because they did a crime.
Bound for Botany Bay

Captain cooks crew started in England and travels all around Australia until they ended up in Botany Bay.

The First Fleet

The journey of the first fleet time line