

The guard pulls me off to the side of the street, away from the roiling crowds advancing into the city. Hes seen something in my eyes, but after a few minutes of interrogation, he lets me enter unhindered.

I don't blame him. Spotting a werewolf is harder than you'd think.

Zac Giger