

Reflection Statement Compilation

Our project was to make a website creating awareness of and educating people about mental health issues amongst young people, specifically focusing on students.

Our group decided on this topic because it is something that every person knows about but doesn't necessarily acknowledge. We aim to create more awareness of this issue amongst small town communities.

Leah Watson and Georgina Mildren: Combined Reflection

I was responsible for the help/resources page and the statistics page. I didn't face very many challenges whilst doing this, however it was quite concerning to see just how high the statistics were with mental health in students. Although, it was comforting to see just how many people were open about this and were seeking help.

Great value comes with completing this group task as not only have we created a great website, but have also made a step towards understanding how to build awareness of this issue in communities like our own.

Georgina Mildren

The project was to create a website to create awareness of Cyberbullying targeted at teens. We decided on Cyberbullying as this is an issue that is in every community and needs to be stopped. I was responsible for doing the statistics for cyberbullying so I conducted a survey to find the statistics in my school for cyberbullying.

Elisha Muller

This unit was helpful in developing multiple skills. The Project of making a website meant that we needed to undertake research, under-go website design, and do an oral presentation. My Group, (Elisha Muller, Jack Goldman and myself) undertook the task of making a website to help people who are being cyberbullying. Our focus was to emphasise the alerting of cyber-bullying, provide support for victims of cyber-bullying, and work toward stopping it altogether.

I was Responsible for developing and designing the website. It was challenging at first to get used to the website designing tool 'Weebly". Perhaps if I had the desire ... and two years, I could have constructed this from scratch using html.

Luke D'Etto

S.P.A.M (Student Poverty Awareness Movement) is an awareness organisation run by high-school students from Aurora College dedicated to raising awareness about the issue of poverty in Australia. We believe this topic is an important and far too prevalent problem in our society and one that needs to be solved so that all Australians can lead the best lives they can. One of the first steps in solving any issue is first raising awareness and educating people and that is what we hope to do; to educate both our younger peers as well as adults so that we can all step forward together to solve the problem.

Poverty is an issue that often goes unnoticed, especially by those who are not directly affected. It seems to go over the heads of many Australians, especially those still in school; it is a topic that is not often talked about or considered thoughtfully. As school-age Australians, we did not even know much about how desperate the issue is, or much about poverty in Australia at all, before we started this project.

S.P.A.M was created for an English, in-class group assignment during November-December 2017.

El Roberts: (From the 'About Page' of the S.P.A.M website – created by El Roberts, Jemima Dugan, Darcy Wood and Liam Wymer)