

Hogwarts Imminent Closure

Due to recent attacks on students, Hogwarts school of Witchcraft and Wizardry may close down

Events over the last 7 days at Hogwarts school of Witchcraft and Wizardry have prompted a series of investigations into some attacks, including upon 2 students. All the victims have been petrified (frozen in place). So far only four beings have been attacked in the school corridors. Mrs Norris the caretaker, Colin Creevey, a first year Gryffindor, Justin Finch-Fletchley and Nearly Headless Nick have all fallen victim to these atrocious crimes. The culprit has not yet been identified and no evidence has been found as to the motives of the attacker.

In the wake of the terrible events I warn students to travel together and to take as many precautions as possible and to stay strong.

I have heard the rumours that the school may close down and as much as I would love to say that these are false, sadly they are all too real.

Goodbye

Threatening messages daubed on the wall

Threatening graffiti has been scrawled upon the school walls and is proving difficult to remove. The bloody writing threatens a noble child and is thought to be written by the same perpetrator that was petrifying victims last week.
